STRANGE HERMIT IS FOUND DEAD

Body of John Ebbing Discovered in His Home in Orange Township Last Night.

DEATH WAS DUE TO DROPSY Was Known For His Peculiarities and Eccentricities—Had Lived Miserable Life.

John Ebbing, an old hermit, known for his peculiarities and eccentricities all over this part of the State was found dead at his little home along the river in the northwestern part of Orange township last night about seven o'clock by his farm hand, Robert Cameron.

Ebbing had been in poor health and complained of feeling bad for several weeks. He and Cameron worked as usual about the farm yesterday, and when Cameron started to go to his home a short distance, for the evening meal, Ebbing asked that he come back after supper and sit up with him for a few hours as he was feeling very bad. Cameron did not think much about the request at the time, but after supper finally decided to go over to the shack. He entered the hermit's home and found him dead with his heels up in the air, where he had fallen over a box that he had there in the house. He had evidently fallen while he was feeding some little chickens, as he still had the feed in his hand and the young chicks were walking around over his body. He had not been dead long when Cameron discovered his body and Coroner Coleman was immediately called. He pronounced sudden death due to dropsy.

Ebbing was very well known for miles around as a peculiar and eccentric character. He could never get along with his neighbors and for this reason was continually having trouble with them. He allowed no one to trespass on his farm or he would threaten to shoot them. He was conceded to be partially insane and few people bothered him. Last summer he had trouble with Cameron, the hired man, who has been working for him recently over some hogs. He found some of Cameron's hogs on his premises and shot one of them. Cameron took the matter to court and got damages for his loss.

It was the common rumor in the community that Ebbing had a great amount of money concealed some place in his little home. A thorough search revealed only $1 and it is said that he had no bank account. He was a bachelor and lived a miserable life for several years. He performed all of his household duties and had no one for a companion except the faithful dog that stayed by his master's side continually. Ebbing lived about fifty yards from George Alter, who died early Wednesday morning.

The deceased is survived by one brother in Jennings county and a nephew in this county. He owned a farm of thirty acres, a small number of farm implements and some live stock. His property is valued at $4000.

The funeral services will be conducted from the late residence tomorrow and the remains will be buried in the Moscow cemetery.

ARE STILL FOR RUSHVILLE

Rushville Colony at Oskaloosa, Iowa, True to First Love.

Dan Kenner, formerly of Rushville, now living in Oskaloosa, Iowa, in a letter he sent subscribing for the Daily Republican, says that Oskaloosa is a good, live city, but that the Rushville colony is still of the opinion that there is no place like old Rush county. J. B. Doll and family are located there and Mr. Kenner is employed by Mr. Doll.

DEATH TRAPS ARE FOUND NEAR HOMES

Fragrant Swill Barrels, Trash Piles and Debris Must All Be Moved Away.

CLEAN-UP DAY IS MAY 12th.

What is the condition of your back yard and alley? Is the latter an impassable mire in winter and a muddy lane in summer, or is it a well-graded, rolled and drained passage-way? Is your back yard green with grass and gay with flowers, making it a beautiful and wholesome place in which your children may play? Or is it a death trap, adorned with a fragrant swill barrel, heaps of ashes and garbage, piles of old boards, an unfidy fence, while the bare ground is soaked with greasy dish water, making it a place abhorrent to your children as a playground, and as unsafe from a sanitary point of view as a sewer?

COMMENCEMENT WILL BE IN MILFORD

Eleven Students to Graduate From the Anderson Township High School.

EXERCISES TO BE HELD FRIDAY

The annual commencement of the Anderson township high school will be held in the Auditorium in Milroy on Friday, May 7, at eight o'clock. The address will be delivered by Dr. O. P. Whitaker of the Merton Christian Union College of Sullivan county. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. F. Cowling of the First Presbyterian church of this city tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Auditorium in Milroy. The alumni banquet will be held on Wednesday evening, May 5. There are eleven graduates in the class, six boys and five girls. Two of this number are graduated from the Orange township high school, but the commencement exercises will be held with the Anderson township high school.

DROVER GETS JUDGEMENT

U. G. Beaver Will Recover From C. H. & D. For Stock Killed.

U. G. Beaver, the stockman, was awarded judgment in the sum of $92.32 in Squire Kratzer's court today in the damage suit he instituted against the C. H. & D. railroad for killing some stock belonging to him.

Partly cloudy and continued cold tonight and Sunday. Probably light snow in north portion. Frost tonight.

Henry Hall, living east of Sexton, remains in a serious condition.

NEW FIRM WILL MAKE MACHINES

Acetylene Gas Generator, Patented by Rushville Man, to be Manufactured Here.

IMPROVES THE OLD METHOD

Enterprise May Develop Into Big Industry as There is a Large Sale Field.

A firm, composed of Charles Younger and Marshall E. Newhouse, will manufacture an Acetylene Gas Generator, patented by Mr. Younger, at the Long & Case machine shop in this city. The generator is said to be one of the best improved and safest one on the market.

Acetylene gas is generated by immersing calcium carbide in water. There are two ways of generating the gas—one by dropping water onto the carbide, the other by immersing carbide in water—the latter method is the one generally adopted, and is used in the Younger generator. Acetylene gas lighting is especially adapted for lighting isolated residences, churches and all kinds of public buildings. On account of the ease with which gas is generated, and because it is more economical by far than other form of lighting. The lighting by this method is cleanest, and dispenses with the use and expense of mantels. The light is extremely brilliant and colors are shown in their natural tint.

Messrs. Younger and Newhouse have already installed several plants in this and Decatur county, and this new industry of Rushville has all the prospects of growing to an extensive business.

ARE FOND OF SPRING BUT OH YOU SNOW!

Wouldn't This May Weather Freeze the Fruit on Your Wife's Bushel Hat?

SPRING POETS RESPONSIBLE

What do you think of this weather for the first of May? Wouldn't it freeze the fruit on your wife's bushel hat? One wouldn't care so much but we have been educated to expect so awfully much of May. The inevitable spring poet has sung to us so persistently and has us saturated with soft, flowing, dreamy, warm, passionate words of song birds, pleasant sunshine, balmy air, budding trees and blooming flowers that it is a bloomin' shame for the weather department to send us snow.

Snow fell today, but not in such chunks so as to block traffic. But it snowed—that's enough.

PRESS ADMITTED.

Peking, May 1.—Press representatives were admitted today to witness the funeral services of the late Emperor and the late Empress Dowager. This is the first time the press has been allowed to view the sacred rites of a Royal Chinese burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jackson of Raleigh and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jackson of Falmouth, were here today on business.

Mrs. Charles Guild of Covington, Ky., returned home yesterday after a two week's visit with relatives here.

ADDITION TO ART COLLECTION

Jabez Smith Has Secured Picture of Great Historic Value For His Collection in Sheriff's Office.

INCLUDES FOUR PHOTOGRAPHS

That Were Taken While Indiana Was a Territory Extremely Interesting to Pioneers of State.

Jabez Smith, custodian of the court house, has recently added another very interesting feature to his already historic collection of art in the sheriff's office in the court house. It is a picture, which includes a group of four photographs that are of great historic value and are extremely interesting to an old pioneer of the State, who knows of the trying period which our State passed through in its organization. The picture is artistically set off by a beautiful gilt frame and is given a very prominent place on the wall so that any visitor can scarcely keep from noticing it.

The group of photographs are: Indiana's first capitol building at Corydon, taken while the State was yet a territory. It was built in the year 1813, when Indiana was a territory and was used only three years, when the territory was admitted into the Union as a State. The building is built according to the style and architecture at that time and is very primitive in its structure. The second photograph shows a picture of the constitutional elm taken in the year 1816. The tree goes down in history as the constitutional elm, as it was here that our forefathers drew up and signed the constitution for our State, when she was admitted to the Union. And the photograph does not only picture the famous tree, but also the men in the act of drawing up and signing the constitution. The third photograph is a picture of the governor's mansion, the place where the chief executive of the State resided. It does not compare very favorably with the present State house and only goes to show what a great improvement has been made in architecture in a century. The fourth photograph is a picture of the old capitol hotel which was built in the year 1809. The building is constructed like all the other structures of the age with the gables and the square appearance that is characteristic. All of these pictures were taken in Corydon, which was the territorial capitol and also the capitol of the State for a time.

The late addition to the art collection has already attracted numerous visitors to the sheriff's office and Mr. Smith expects many more after the fact is more widely known. The collection includes pictures that are of great historic value. It has all been made at the expense of Mr. Smith and he intends to hand it down to his successor with the understanding that it is to be made larger as time goes on and is never to be taken out of the court house.

RALLY DAY EXERCISES.

At the Second M. E. church tomorrow Rally Day exercises will be held and a large attendance is anticipated. In the morning, the pastor, Rev. Leggett will preach on "Fullness of Joy." In the afternoon at 2:30 the Sunday school will render a special missionary program. At 7:30 in the evening, the pastor will preach on "Inward Peace."

MONDAY IS LAST DAY.

Monday is the last day to pay taxes without the usual penalty of ten per cent attached.

SPRAY FRUIT TREES NOW

After the Petals Fall From the Blossoms—Poison in the Flower.

The time for spraying fruit trees for killing insects is near at hand. The first spraying should be made immediately after the falling of the petals from the blossoms and while the little apple is standing straight out. The object is to get some of the poison into the blossom of the young apple so that when the larva attempts to eat its way into the blossom end it will be killed.

TAKES TREATMENT FOR THE RABIES

Carthage Boy Goes to Indianapolis to Take the Pasteur Preventative Treatment.

HE IS NOW OUT OF DANGER.

The following taken from an Alexandria paper says of a former Carthage boy—Bordia Siler, of Scott's addition, who has been taking preventative treatment at the Pasteur hospital at Indianapolis for rabies for ten days, is now thought to be out of danger, but will continue the treatment about two weeks yet. He is working at Indianapolis with the traction terminal company.

WIND MILL FELL IN WILD STORM

Crashing Through Roof of Barn at the Bruce Graham Farm on Thursday Night.

DID CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Between ten and eleven o'clock on Thursday night, the high wind blew the windmill over on top of the barn at Bruce Graham's farm, northwest of this city. The windmill was a total wreck, and the barn was considerably damaged. It fell with such a crash that people were awakened three and four blocks away. The loss is estimated at $75.

SAY HE STARVED TO DEATH

Old Hermit Tried to Live on Five Cents Worth of Meat Each Week.

Word came from the vicinity of Milroy today to the effect that John Ebbing, who was found dead in his hovel yesterday evening died from starvation. It is said that often he would use but five cents worth of meat in a week.

PAVEMENT WITH THREE MILE LAW

Is a Common Thing in Rush and in Other Counties—Why Not Rushville?

IS ALL ABSORBING QUESTION

Scores of Cities in Indiana Have Built Brick Streets Under the Same Act.

The brick paving question is the all absorbing one among many residents of Rushville just now. The business men, almost to a man, favor the project and are wielding a mighty influence which is being felt. One of the most prominent and progressive men in the city declared today that both Main and Second streets would be paved no matter how far the remonstrators went with the case to the higher courts. He said the money they were spending was like throwing it away and suggested that they might "throw it into the brick streets."

In stating that the Milroy pike was built under the Three Mile Road law, the Daily Republican was in error yesterday, as they held an election there to decide the matter. However, we did not mention the fact that a number of other roads in Rush county have been ordered built by the county commissioners under the same law. The Jim Williams pike in Noble township has been completed under the Three Mile Road law; the Seth Moore road in Rushville township has been ordered built by the commissioners, contract awarded, and bonds ordered sold; the Jackson road contract in Washington township has been awarded and bonds ordered sold; the Ed Hill road in Ripley township has been contracted for and the bonds ordered sold; the contract for the Harry Colter road in Richland township will be let May 25. There are a number of others that have been ordered built by the county commissioners under this law. Why didn't they think something about the constitutionality of the law when they awarded those contracts if there was any doubt about the question?

The fact of the matter is, the proposed improvement in this city is an equitable one and should go through.

Scores of cities throughout Indiana have built brick streets under the same act. Why should Rushville lag along behind just because a few—and a very small minority they are, too,—are opposed to the improvement?

WILL ENTER NEW CHURCH SUNDAY

Missionary Baptist to Hold the First Services in Church in North Morgan Street Sunday.

CONGREGATION LEAVES CHURCH

Rev. Leggett Had a Strange Experience at Prayer Meeting Thursday Night.

DESERTED, HE QUIT PULPIT

With Bowed Head he Strolled Home Only to Find Happy Crowd Awaiting His Coming.

Rev. J. J. Leggett, like most busy men, went to his prayer meeting Thursday night, blissfully ignorant of the arrival of his 53d birthday. He began his services in the usual manner, but noticed, during the progress of the meeting, something that was unusual in his experience—his congregation began to diminish one by one until but a handful of his most faithful attendants were left him to bring his meeting to a close.

But, as the evening gave promise of a storm, the good man dismissed all thought of his discourse being without interest to his worshippers who never before had thus deserted him, and concluded, as many of those leaving lived afar, that they desired to reach home in advance of the threatening weather with its accompaniment of fierce lightnings and muttering thunder.

In the meantime, many others, acquaintances and friends, had already gathered quietly at the parsonage in advance of the deserting members of his fold. So when the faithful pastor went to his home, followed by the dear ones of his flock who, in spite of the rain and storm, had remained with him until the end, to his utter surprise, he found his deserting members facing him and with them many others upon whom he had no ministerial claims—all in possession of his home, running things according to their own sweet will. We have had it hinted that the Reverend was given gentle reminders of the text "Spare not the Rod and Spoil the Child," but, as a large table stood near laden with many beautiful and useful gifts, we take it that the experience of being a child again was relieved of its embarrassment.

Mrs. J. T. Leggett, moving spirit in the web of pleasure that had thus entangled her husband, dispensed refreshments to the gathered friends. After refreshments, Prof. Williams, spokesman for the donors, made the formal presentation of the many beautiful gifts to the surprised pastor, paying a beautiful tribute to his sterling qualities as a man and to the tested fidelity with which he has discharged his duties during his long ministerial career. Rev. Shumake, surrounded by many of the members of his church, followed with a glowing testimonial to the high Christian character of Rev. Leggett. He said that in his long career as a minister, he had never met a preacher of a denomination different from his own, with whom he could sustain such brotherly relationship as with Rev. Leggett. "Never before has there been such harmony" Rev. Shumake said, "between the Methodist and Baptist churches of this city. This he attributed to the broad Christian charity of Rev. Leggett, as a minister.

The formal function being over, the friends departed, leaving behind them many reminders of the high esteem in which Rev. Leggett and his family are held.

We wish to add that Rev. Leggett is a good and useful man, well worthy of the testimonial of esteem thus shown.

WOOL BUYERS WANT AN EARLY SHEARING

If Worn by the Sheep Too Long it Becomes Tangled—Other Useful Hints.

MANUFACTURES HAVE A WORD

At a recent meeting of wool manufacturers it was the unanimously expressed opinion that the wool that is sheared early is, generally speaking, much preferable to that shorn late. This, it is argued, is because the longer the wool is left on the sheep, the more tangled and matted it becomes.

Furthermore, the manufacturers took a decided stand in favor of rejecting all wool tied with binder twine as it is known that the coarse fibre getting into the wool to which it clings, tenaciously, causes trouble in the various processes through which the wool must pass in being converted into cloth.

USING STOCK PEN FOR HOUSE

Were Couple at New Castle When Found by Local People—Given a Tent.

ARE NOW LIVING IN STYLE

Scarcity of Houses in the City of Roses Has Caused Many Mushroom Homes to Materialize.

The New Castle Courier gives the following illustration of the demand for houses due to the addition of the auto factory to its industries:

"A man named Clark and his wife were discovered in a grove south of the city with nothing but an abandoned stock pen for shelter. They were observed by V. M. Mendenhall and reported to Marshal Mogul who investigated. Tuesday night the man and his wife were brought to the city and were given the use of a tent belonging to Mendenhall.

Clark stated that he had hunted the town over but could find neither a house nor rooms and that he and his wife stumbled onto the old shed in the woods. Both are used to better things and went 'home' carrying the tent as happy as larks.

"Mrs. Clark was well dressed, probably not in the height of fashion and she was glad that her husband and she were to have a canvass home. The discovery of Mendenhall was timely owing to the fact that Mrs. Clark is about to become a mother. Clark is employed on the gas main work and is regarded as a steady, sober workman. They were married in Anderson and came to this city some weeks ago. This morning the Clarks were given permission to move their 'home' to a lot on B avenue.

GET CONSUMPTION IN A BAD SCHOOL

Unsanitary Conditions at Greenfield Are Alarming—Several Victims Among Pupils.

WOMEN ARE INVESTIGATING.

Considerable concern is daily expressed over the possible unsanitary condition of the high school building in Greenfield, and at a recent meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs in that city a committee of four women were chosen to investigate the condition at each of the school buildings. Several cases of tuberculosis that have developed among school children are the immediate cause of the investigation.

REBATE MONEY TO BE PAID TWO WAYS

If License Money Has Been Appropriated to School Fund, County Council Must Appropriate.

ONLY ONE INSTANCE HERE

The question of where the money is to come from to rebate the saloon keepers the amount of their liquor license due, when they are put out of business by the local option elections is worrying a number of county auditors just at present.

In Rush county there is only one saloon owner who will have the right to demand rebate money in that all the saloon license expired at the end of the year for which their license called. This is the saloon owned by William O'Neil in East First street. He will be compelled to close his doors three months after the election held here and will have rebate money for several months coming.

County Auditor Jesse Stone says that there are two ways of rebating. If the money paid in as license has not been appropriated to the school tuition fund the rebates can be paid out of the money the saloon keepers have paid in, but if the money has been appropriated to the school fund, then the county council will have to be called on to appropriate money from the general fund to pay the rebates. County treasurer George Caldwell says that the money paid in by the saloon keepers as license has already been appropriated to the school tuition fund and that he has no license fund on hands out of which to pay rebates.

"THE BLONDE TYPEWRITERS"

By EUGENE LESTER.

Allegro moderato.

1. All the songs you hear,—it al-most seems this year,—Are of some country home and fields of new mown hay;
2. Neath this mer-ry lid where real true love is hid, A shad-y bow-er you can bet ain't one two three;

Some old shad-y nook, rus-tic bench and brook,— Ev'-ry scene is sit-u-a-ted far a-way.
Sun-shine or in rain, you can play love's game, Mis-ter Moon may peep at night but can-not see.

There's the lover with his sweet-heart at the gar-den gate, Oth-ers spoon be-neath a cher-ry tree, Bal-co-nies and clinging vine, may be nice, but none for nine. Boys, just take this qui - et lit - le tip from me.
Ev'-ry lad can hold his own and whisper tales of love, In a tru-ly con-fiden-tial way, Cov-er hid from view, lov-ers now can bill and coo, Af-ter you've been there like me I'm sure you'll say:

You can have your lit-tle cot-tage by the sea to love, You can have your grape-vine arbor shade,
You can have your shady lane and moon-lit sky a-bove, Your bam-bo-hut out in a for-est glade.
Talk a-bout your lit-tle co-zy corn-er built for two, Rave of love with-in a steam heat flat, If you want to feel true bliss, hug and kiss some dainty Miss Under a Mer-ry Wid-ow Hat.

Potatoes may soon be too high for the average man to eat, but they will be within reach of the humble potato bug.

It is only a short sixteen miles from Muncie to Hartford City, and the interurban runs cars each way every hour. The thirsty ones need not despair.

The Kansas City Journal gives this from the typewriter of a Kansas editor on the death of a prominent citizen: "He had been married forty years and was prepared to die."

William E. Curtis, the famous staff correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, writing from Nashville relative to the prohibition movement and its bitter effects in Tennessee, says:

"No previous agitation has ever provoked such animosities as Prohibition, not as a principle, but as a political issue, and, as has been the case in other Southern States, the demagogues and office seekers have taken advantage of the awakening of the public conscience with great shrewdness and success. No wave of public sentiment has ever washed up into place and power so many cheap politicians and at the same time there has been the most extraordinary exhibition of public confidence. Every man who proclaimed himself a prohibitionist, no matter what his past affiliations or practices may have been, has suddenly become a public idol. The most conscientious and scrupulous of citizens without a moment's hesitation have followed to the polls men without conscience or scruple solely because they made speeches denouncing distilleries and saloons. But when the reaction sets in the tidal wave recedes; people will recover their reason and the imitators who have taken advantage of the occasion will return to their proper levels in the body politic.

"It is one of these mysteries of Providence that religious and moral issues are permitted to be the causes of murder, assassination, sacrifices

INDIANA WETS WIN LAFAYETTE

Hot Contest in Tippecanoe County Ends in a Victory For the Saloon Keepers.

THREE OTHER COUNTIES DRY

Drys Win With Ease in Washington, Martin and Jefferson Counties

—Purdue Students Arrested.

Indianapolis, May 1.—Tippecanoe county, with 103 saloons and Purdue University at Lafayette, voted "wet" Friday by a majority in the neighborhood of 800. Washington, Martin and Jefferson counties voted "dry." The former has been without saloons for a year and the "wets" offered no resistance. The "dry" majority in Washington, including Salem, county seat, was 1,285.

Official returns give Jefferson to the temperance contingent by a majority of 54, but every precinct in Madison except one voted "wet." There were two of the oldest breweries in the state at Madison and thirty-six saloons. Martin, one of the small counties, went "dry" by 395, wiping out eight saloons.

The result in Tippecanoe is the most notable victory won by the "wets" except in Wayne county. Both sides put up a fierce fight in Tippecanoe, Lafayette being the battleground. The odds were in favor of the anti-saloon leaguers as President Stone and the faculty of Purdue led the opposition to the "wets." There are over 2,000 students at Purdue and arrangements were made to vote hundreds of them. In spite of the protests of the members of the taxpayers' league, several hundred non-resident students were voted in West Lafayette.

The city of Lafayette gave a "wet" majority of 2,504, which establishes a new record in Indiana. The township in which Purdue is located gave a "dry" majority of 831. The "drys" carried the out townships but by a majority much lower than anticipated. The victory of the "wets" in Lafayette was due very largely to the stand taken by the business men who made a thorough organization. The "drys" controlled the election boards and were able to vote the students at will. However, the "wets" made them give affidavits that they were resident voters. Forty-seven students were arrested during the day for alleged illegal voting.

The women took an important part in all of the elections, praying at the churches and serving sandwiches at the voting places. At Madison, six men, thought to be illegal voters, were arrested.

Fifty counties in Indiana have voted "dry" and four "wet." Eighteen counties are "dry" by remonstrance, making the total "dry" sixty-eight, out of the ninety-two counties in the state.

MARKEDLY OPTIMISTIC

Is the Tone of Trade for the Future, Says Bradstreet.

New York, May 1.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Summed up, the situation may be said to be a current trade, wholesale and retail better than last year, but disappointing as a whole, while the tone for the future is still quite markedly optimistic. Reports from leading industries are rather better than for some time past. The business doing and the reports coming from the iron and steel trades are distinctly better. Low prices have evidently brought out slumbering orders and there is talk of the bottom having been touched and a new ascent begun. Coal is in better demand and the new agreement for three years in anthracite being signed, stability and peace are certain for a long period.

EXTENSION OF THE CORPORATION LINE

Sentiment is Prevalent Here for Such a Movement Especially in North Main Street.

A GOOD BUILDING LOCATION

There is quite a lot of sentiment prevalent in this city for the extension of the corporation line in several localities, especially in North Main street, where new additions were platted and lots sold last summer. There are very-few available lots in this city, where homes could be built and in all probability the Bowen land and the new addition north will soon be taken in by the city council. It is by far the best building location on the "border land" as it contains about two hundred acres of level, well drained land.

SEVENTY FIVE DEAD IN STORM

Tornado Exacts Terrible Toll in the Southland—Much Property Was Destroyed.

TENNESSEE WORST SUFFERER

Fully Sixty People Were Killed in That State—Nearly One Thousand Injured.

Cincinnati, May 1.—Figures compiled by the Enquirer show the total number of killed in the series of destructive tornadoes to be 170, with 704 injured.

Louisville, Ky., May 1.—Dispatches gathered throughout the South indicate that from 50 to 75 people met sudden death in the great wind that loosed havoc throughout the section. The number of injured is probably three-fold the list of the killed, and it will probably be several days before a complete list can be gathered.

While the storm, which reached the South from the upper Mississippi Valley shortly after midnight Friday, left its scar on Mississippi, Arkansas, Kentucky, Alabama, Missouri and more remote states, Tennessee perhaps suffered the most severely. It is substantiated that 60 people were killed, distributed among the following towns: Young's Crossing, 5; Fayetteville, 5; Noblesville, 1; Hartman county, 1; Medina, 4; Clarksville, 1; Centerville, 1; Franklin, 1; Hillsboro, 4; Somerville, 3; Laconia, 2; Bells, 2; Quito, 8; Giles county, 12.

Mississippi's most disastrous point was Horn lake, where 18 met death. Arkansas reports a total of 12 dead with likelihood that it will be added to as the inaccessible wire points are picked up. Alabama has four dead near Hartsell. Kentucky escaped with much property damage, but no deaths, while Missouri has seven killed at Somerville and Golden, Georgia lost two when a boat capsized in Atlanta. In Arkansas the towns which lay in the swath of the recent tornado at Brinkley suffered most. They were West Marion, Weakley and Vianagean.

Storm Claims Entire Family. Evansville, Ind., May 1.—The storm that swept southern Illinois Thursday night was the worst in many years. On the farm of William T. Garner, near Texas City, Ill., Edgar Overton, his wife and infant child and Daniel Stallings, his hired hand, were instantly killed when their house was blown down. A hired girl named Carlise, who lived with the Overtons, was so badly injured that it is not expected she will recover.

UNSPAKABLE CRUELTY

Marked Recent Armenian Massacre. According to American Observer.

Constantinople, May 1.—A letter from Tarsus, written by Dr. Thomas D. Christie, of Hartford, Conn., dated April 20, says:

"I estimated that there were one thousand dead in Adana and Tarsus, and 300 in neighboring towns, but I begin to think this estimate is too low for the country districts. Our banker, Shaker Boutros, for example, has farms southeast of Tarsus and had eighty-one men at work on them, one Greek and eighty Armenians. The Greek came in with the story that every one of the eighty Armenians had been killed. From Kozolok came a similar tale."

"We breakfast, dine and supper on horrors. I never would have believed men capable of such cruelties, the sight of which I saw Saturday morning. As the train on which I was riding moved through the vineyards, the gardens this side of Adana, they reminded me of Shiloh, of Corinth, of Vicksburg, of Atlanta. Here were bodies lying where they had fallen. There was a heap of ten to twenty piled up like cordwood. I suppose in preparation for burial. In Adana cart loads were being dumped into the river. In the long street leading up from the station I counted in the quarter of a mile I traversed over thirty bodies that had not yet been removed."

"There were two whole days of bitter street fighting, of massacre of the defenceless, and burnings. Our great strong city of Adana is now a thing of the past."

ALASKAN EXPLORATION

This is the Object of University of Chicago Expedition.

Seattle, May 1.—Beginning a two years' trip to Alaska in the interests of the University of Chicago and the United States government, Ernest de Koven Leffingwell, the well-known explorer, sailed away from here today on the steamer Argo with his two companions.

The first objective point of the party is Point Barrow, where the headquarters of the prospective exploration trips will be established.

OLD CHAMPION WAS TOUCHED

Jake Schaefer, Billiard Expert, Received a Contribution From Little Joe Geraghty.

DENVER PAPER HAS STORY

Publishing the Letter Sent by the Young Phenomena—Receives Reply From the Old Vet.

Last Monday benefits were given all over the United States for Jake Schaefer, a champion billiard player, who for years has had a large following among lovers of the ivories and green cloth.

Among those who made a contribution to Schaefer, who is now in ill health and with little funds, was Joe Geraghty, son of James Geraghty of Indianapolis, formerly of this city, who has achieved more than State fame as a boy phenomena in billiard parlors. Of the young lad's donation to the big fund the Denver (Col.) Republican on Wednesday said:

Jake Schaefer, the billiardist, for whom a benefit was given in every city of importance in the United States Monday evening, received hundreds of letters in connection with the testimonials, but it is doubtful if any impressed him more than the following, which speaks for itself:

"Indianapolis, Ind., April 24, 1909.

"Mr. Jacob Schaefer, Denver, Col.

"Enclosed find $1 which I send you I would send more but this is all I can spare hoping your benefit will help you body and soul, I remain "JOE GERAGHTY."

P. S., chalanger of eny eleven year old poll player in the world. My Manager does not know anything about this so drop me a line. J. G."

The following letter was received by the Indianapolis boy:

To Joe Geraghty, Champion eleven-year-old Pool Player of the World I am directed by Jacob Schaefer to acknowledge the receipt of your heartfelt letter with enclosure of $1, and to assure you of his deep appreciation of the same. He thinks more of this donation from you than a large sum from some rich man.

Wishing you all success in your chosen profession, I am

Yours very truly,
L. H. GALUCIA,
Manager for Jacob Schaefer.

RACE SUICIDERS ARE HERE GALORE

School Enumerators Find That the Average Number of Children Not up to Standard.

THE POOR DO THEIR PART

The size of the families in this city are much smaller than the average, according to the school enumerators who have about completed their work in Rushville. The average in the majority of cities is four persons or more to a family, while in Rushville the average will be a little more than three persons to the family.

While the enumerators do not complain of race suicide, yet they find that there are any number of families in the city who have one son or daughter, while an equally large number have no children. These conditions exist principally among the wealthier residents. The report will show that the ratio of children to the family will be greater among the poorer citizens.

CONVICT FORMER ARLINGTON MAN

Perry F. Carr Was Found Guilty in Criminal Court at Indianapolis Yesterday.

MAY ASK FOR A NEW TRIAL

The following story from today's Indianapolis Star concerns a former Arlington citizen, Perry F. Carr:

"Judge Pritchard in Criminal court yesterday returned a decision in the case of Perry F. Carr, a real estate dealer, charged with grand larceny, who was tried several days ago. Carr was found guilty as charged, and under the law will be sentenced to the Indiana State prison for a term of from one to fourteen years. Judge Pritchard, however, allowed a week for the filing of a motion for a new trial.

"Carr was convicted when Cornelius Overholser, an accomplice, turned State's evidence. It was charged that Carr unlawfully kept $75 belonging to Smith Campbell, a grocer. According to the evidence this money was deposited by Campbell as a guarantee of good faith that he would sell his grocery to Overholser. The latter also deposited $75 and then withdrew from the deal. Overholser got his money back, but Campbell did not."

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

One of the prominent citizens of this man's town went down to the L. & C. traction station yesterday to meet an aunt who was coming to visit him. His wife, who went to the station with him had never seen the woman, and on the way he told her that the aunt was very deaf. As the train pulled in he went to the car to meet his aunt and he told her the same thing about his wife. They talked as if they were at a belling. Each yelled at the top of her voice and neither was the least bit hard off hearing. Wasn't that a dirty trick?

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. It is suggested that it is best to take a tablet, also usually. At least, says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a calamity, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in minutes, and tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

CHAPTER IX.

FROM the commanding elevation of the box "Three 'n' six" enunciated the cabby, his tone that of a man prepared for trouble, inclined to give trouble a welcome. His bloodshot eyes blinked truculently at his alighted fare. "Three 'n' six," he iterated aggressively.

An adjacent but theretofore abstracted policeman pricked up his ears and assumed an intelligent expression.

"Bermondsey Ol' Stairs to Sain' Pancras," argued the cabby assertively, "seven mile by th' radius—three 'n' six."

Kirkwood stood on the outer station platform, near the entrance to third class waiting rooms. Continuing to fumble through his pockets for an elusive sovereign purse, he looked up mildly at the man.

"All right, cabby," he said, with pacific purpose; "you'll get your fare in half a shake."

"Three 'n' six" croaked the cabby, like a blowzy and vindictive parrot.

The bobby strolled nearer.

"Yes?" said Kirkwood, mildly diverted. "Why not sing it, cabby?"

"Lor' lumme!" The cabby exploded with indignation, continuing to give a lifelike imitation of a ruffled parrot. "I'd trouble enough wif it at Bermondsey Ol' Stairs hover that quid you promised, didn't I? Sing it! My heye!"

"Quid, cabby?" And then, remembering that he had promised the fellow a sovereign for fast driving from Quadrant mews, Kirkwood grinned broadly, eyes twinkling, for Mulready must have fallen heir to that covenant. "But you got the sovereign? You got it, didn't you, cabby?"

The driver affirmed the fact with unnecessary heat and profanity and an amendment to the effect that he would have spoiled his fare's sanguinary cork had the outcome been less satisfactory.

The information proved so amusing that Kirkwood, chuckling, forbore to resent the manner of its delivery and, abandoning until a more favorable time the chase of the coy sovereign purse, extracted from one trousers pocket half a handful of large English small change.

"Three shillings and sixpence." He counted the coins into the cabby's grimy and bloated paw and added, quietly: "The exact distance is rather less than four miles, my man—your fare, precisely 2 shillings. You may keep the extra 18 pence for being such a conscientious blackguard—or talk it over with the officer here. Please yourself."

He nodded to the bobby, who, favorably impressed by Kirkwood, smiled at the cabby a cold, hard smile, whereupon the latter, smirking in unabashed triumph, spat on the pavement at Kirkwood's feet, gathered up the reins and wheeled out.

Restoring 2 shillings and a few fat copper pennies to his pocket, he entered the vast and echoing train shed. In the act his attention was attracted and immediately riveted by the spectacle of a burly luggage navvy in a blue jumper in the act of making off with a large folding signboard, of which the surface was lettered expansively with the advice, in red against a white background, "Boat Train Leaves on Track 3."

Excitedly Kirkwood touched the man's arm with a detaining hand. "Boat train?" he gasped, pointing at the board.

"Left ten minutes ago, thank you, sir."

"Well, but—Of course I can get another train at Tilbury?"

"For yer boat? No, sir, thank you, sir. Won't be another tryne till mornin', sir."

"Oh-h!"

Aimlessly Kirkwood drifted away his mind a blank.

Some time later he found himself on the steps outside the station, trying to stare out of countenance a glaring electric mineral water advertisement on the farther side of the Euston road. He was stranded.

Distracted, he searched pocket after pocket, locating his watch, cigar case and cigarette case, matchbox, penknife, all the minutiae of pocket hardware affected by civilized man, with old letters, a cardcase, a square envelope containing his steamer ticket, but no sovereign purse. His small change pocket held less than 3 shillings—two and eight, to be exact—and a brass key, which he failed to recognize as one of his belongings.

And that was all. At some time during the night he had lost (or been cunningly bereft of) that little purse of chamois skin containing the three golden sovereigns which he had been husbanding to pay his steamer expenses and which, if only he had them now, would stand between him and starvation and a night in the streets. If Brentwick were only in town! But he wasn't and wouldn't be within the week.

"No good waiting here," he concluded. Composing his face, he re-entered the station. There were his trunks, of course. He couldn't leave them standing on the station platform forever. He found the luggage room and interviewed a mechanically courteous attendant, who, as the result of profound deliberation, advised him to try his luck at the lost luggage room across the station. He accepted the advice. It was a foregone conclusion that his effects had not been conveyed to the Tilbury dock. They could not have been loaded into the luggage van without his personal supervision. Still, anything was liable to happen when his unlucky star was in the ascendant.

He found them in the lost luggage room.

A clerk helped him identify the articles and ultimately clucked with a perfunctory note, "Sixpence each, please."

"I—ah—pardon?"

"Sixpence each, the fixed charge, sir. For every twenty-four hours or fraction thereof, sixpence per parcel."

"Oh, thank you so much," said Kirkwood sweetly. "I will call tomorrow."

"Very good, sir. Thank you, sir."

"Five times sixpence is two and six," Kirkwood computed, making his way hastily out of the station lest a worse thing befall him. "No, bless your heart—not while two and eight represents the sum total of my fortune."

He wandered out into the night. He could not linger round the station till dawn, and what profit to him if he did? Even were he to ransom his trunks one can scarcely change one's clothing in a public waiting room.

Somewhere in the distance a great clock chimed a single stroke freighted sore with melancholy. It knelled the passing of the half hour after midnight, a witching hour when every public shuts up tight and gentlemen in top hats and evening dress are doomed to pace the pave till day (baring they have homes or visible means of support)—till day, when pawnshops open and such personal effects as watches and hammered silver cigar cases may be hypothecated. What was he to do? An hour passed. Through this long hour Kirkwood walked without a pause.

Another clock somewhere clanged resonantly twice. The world was very still. And so, wandering foot loose in a wilderness of ways, turning aimlessly, now right, now left, he found himself again in Frogmire street.

Kirkwood identified it with a start and a guilty tremor. He stopped stock still in an unreasoning state of semi-panic, arrested by a silly impulse to turn and fly, as if the bobby whom he described approaching him with measured stride, pausing now and again to try a door or flash his bullseye down an area, were to be expected to identify the man responsible for that racket raised ere midnight in vacant No. 9.

At the corner he swerved and crossed, still possessed of his devil of inspiration. It would be unfair to him to say that he did not struggle to resist it, for he did, because it was fairly and egregiously asinine; yet, struggling, his feet trod the path to which it tempted him.

"Why," he expostulated feebly, "I might as well turn back and beat that bobby over the head with my cane!"

But at the moment his hand was in his change pocket, feeling over that same brass door key which earlier he had been unable to account for, and he was informing himself how very easy it would have been for the sovereign purse to have dropped from his waistcoat pocket while he was sliding on his ear down the dark staircase.

To recover it meant, at the least, shelter for the night, followed by a decent, comfortable and sustaining morning meal. Fortified by both he could redeem his luggage, change to clothing more suitable for daylight traveling, pawn his valuables and enter into negotiations with the steamship company for permission to exchange his passage, with a sum to boot, for transportation on another liner—a most feasible project, a temptation all but irresistible!

"Well, but—Of course I can get another train at Tilbury?"

"For yer boat? No, sir, thank you, sir. Won't be another tryne till mornin', sir."

"Oh-h!"

Aimlessly Kirkwood drifted away his mind a blank.

He almost lost his head when he realized that escape was already cut off by the way he had come. Some one or, rather, some two men were entering the alley. He could hear the tramping and shuffle of clumsy feet and voices that muttered indistinctly. One seemed to trip over something and cursed. The other laughed. The voices grew more loud. They were coming his way. He dared no longer vacillate. He dived into the nearest black hole of a passageway and in sheer desperation flung himself, key in hand, against the door at the end. Mark how his luck served him who had forsaken her! He found a keyhole and inserted the key. It turned. So did the knob. The door gave inward. He fell in with it, slammed it, shot the bolts and, panting, leaned against its panels, in a pit of everlasting night, but saved for the time being, at all events.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

BOTTLE CHICKENS.

(Columbus Republican.)

Numerous stories have been sent to this office during the past few weeks about spring hatchings, but a new one arrived today that will probably stand as unequalled for some time to come.

Mrs. Andrew Falconer set some eggs and these began hatching yesterday. The mother hen instead of showing a true motherly instinct for her newly hatched chickens, pounced upon them instead and had killed several when she was captured and tied up. Mrs. Falconer saw at once that she could not hope to hatch the rest of the eggs under the hen, because the hen would kill the chickens as fast as they emerged from the shell. A neighbor suggested that warm flannel rags be wrapped around the eggs and that they might be forced to hatch in that manner. This gave Mrs. Falconer an idea, and she immediately put it into practice.

If warm rags were good for the hatching eggs why would not a hot water bottle be better.

So a water bottle was filled with very hot water and the eggs were laid under it. This morning four lively chickens hatched out and poked their bills from under the hot water bottle. The other eggs under the bottle were expected to hatch today.

And in conclusion it might be botle babies.

A GASOLINE ROUTE.

(Carthage Citizen.)

J. O. Addison of Knightstown, while in Carthage Tuesday, approached some of our people on the question of establishing an automobile line for passenger traffic, between the above mentioned places. Whether or not such a line becomes operative depends on the encouragement he receives. The patronage Mr. Addison would be likely to derive from Carthage would depend largely, we believe, on the schedule. Our people are especially in need of some means of early morning transportation. While awaiting the coming of a traction line, an automobile line would without doubt, fill a long felt want. Last year one or two of our citizens seriously considered operating such a line.

DECLARATION OF WAR ON THE GREAT LAKES

Strike Inaugurated Today Involving 30,000 Men.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 1.—The first formal declaration of war by the labor unions on the great lakes against the Lake Carriers' Association was issued today. Officially, it is the inauguration of a strike of between 30,000 and 35,000 men employed in every capacity on board ship except master. As a matter of fact there will be practically no change in the situation which has existed since the opening of navigation when the marine engineers refused to sign contracts in which the Lake Carriers' association inserted the open shop clause. The engineers were backed up by the officers of the firemen's, oilers' and water tenders' association and the marine cooks and stewards' union. Leaders in both organizations refused to allow their men to ship on board any Lake Carriers' association boat with a non-union engineer. Under the constitution and by-laws the officers could not, however, declare a strike until the question had been submitted to a referendum vote. This was done last week, and according to advices received by local unions, the vote to strike was practically unanimous.

Gain Was Not Maintained.

Chicago, May 1.—Wheat prices scored a further advance early in the session Friday, but lost all of the gain on realizing sales, final quotations being a shade higher to $\frac{1}{2}$ cent lower compared with the previous close. Corn and oats also closed weak but provisions were steady.

INDIANA TRUST BUSTING

Attorney General Bingham Looking Into Insurance Combination.

Indianapolis, May 1.—Attorney-General Bingham is arranging to bring suit to determine whether or not the anti-trust law is being violated by five insurance companies. It is understood that practically all of the fire insurance companies operating in Indiana will be affected by the suit and that the complaints against the alleged trust will be brought on the violation of the anti-trust law. The state likely will seek an injunction to prevent the companies which operate under the Dean schedules from enforcing the rates which they prescribe. Although the attorney-general declines to say what investigation he has made, it has been known that he has been looking up the operations of the alleged combine, and that he has satisfied himself that one exists. The so-called combine is said to operate under the name of the Western Union of Insurance companies. Its officers, it is said, have gone into every city in the state to investigate the rates fixed by companies which do not belong to the union, and those concerns which have fixed rates below the figures the union has prescribed are virtually kept from doing business by those companies which operate under the direction of the Dean schedules.

William J. Wood was today re-appointed by Governor Marshall as a member of the Indiana Railroad Commission. The governor also announced that he will retain Judge J. F. McClure, who was appointed by former Governor Hanly at the time of the resignation of Union B. Hunt. The announcement ends a long series of speculations by persons who have been guessing for several weeks as to who would be appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Mr. Wood's term. Mr. Wood was the Democratic appointee of Governor Hanly.

Governor Marshall and his private secretary, Mark Thistlethwaite, will not be compelled to go to South Bend next Tuesday to testify before a grand jury as to their knowledge of prize fighting in that city. They have received a letter from Prosecutor Pattee saying their presence will not be necessary. Pattee is convinced that the governor and Mr. Thistlethwaite have no intimate knowledge of the situation at South Bend further than the reports received here that prize fighting was permitted.

DOCTOR SHOOTS NEPHEW

And Vainly Tries to Slay His Wife in Police Court.

Detroit, Mich., May 1.—Dr. C. K. Boyajian, an Armenian, shot and fatally wounded his nephew, Harooton H. Gaspanian, when the latter was being arraigned in police court with his aunt, the physician's wife, on a statutory charge. Mrs. Boyajian, who is twenty-eight years of age, and her twenty-three-year-old nephew were arrested on complaint of Dr. Boyajian, who told a remarkable story of his discovery of the relations between his wife and nephew, whom he had brought from his home at Lynn, Mass., and was educating in a local medical college.

As the case was called, Dr. Boyajian jumped to his feet and whipped out a revolver. Before anyone could seize the enraged man he was firing at his nephew, one bullet entering the young man's back, another penetrating his wrist and a third his hand. He fell to the floor dying, as the doctor turned the revolver toward his wife, who was saved by being pushed into a vacant jury room.

Sought Girl's Home to Kill Himself. Elkhart, Ind., May 1.—Laverne Roeder shot himself through the heart at the home of Leona Levinston. Roeder and Miss Levinston were very friendly until two months ago, when they quarreled. He went to the Levinston home and asked to see the girl. He was told she was at a neighbor's house when in fact she was upstairs. He asked a brother of the girl to bring him a drink and while he was alone fired the fatal shot.

Don't Take Hint at Terre Haute. Terre Haute, Ind., May 1.—The Terre Haute boxing exhibition scheduled for May 7 is not likely to be annulled, notwithstanding the action at South Bend and Indianapolis, where exhibitions were called off. There has been no complaint to the governor from Terre Haute, so far as known, and the local authorities are proceeding on the opinion that the exhibitions are not in violation of the law against prize fighting.

Woman Killed in Storm.

Hartford City, Ind., May 1.—The dwelling of John Welch, three miles east of Trenton, was blown down. Mrs. Welch was killed and her husband badly injured. The barn was also blown down and a horse was killed. Mrs. Welch was crushed in the debris. She was fifty-eight years old and the mother of several children.

Traveling Men Adjourn.

Evansville, Ind., May 1.—The annual state convention of the Travelers Protective Association of Indiana came to a close this afternoon with the delegates and visitors attending a ball game.

President Taft has promised to send a special message to congress, calling attention to the factional strife in Porto Rico.

CROWNING ACT OF INFAMY

How Abdul Hamid Venting Wrath Upon Loss of Throne.

Paris, May 1.—Telegraphing from Constantinople the Matin's correspondent says that Abdul Hamid probably will be transferred from Saloniki to Monastir as furious mobs set around the villa where he is lodged clamoring for his head and the troops have difficulty in keeping them back.

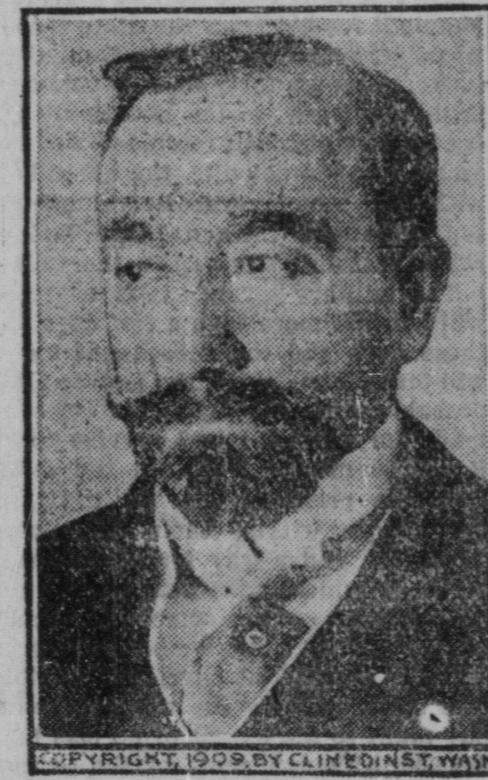

"The former sultan," the correspondent adds, "committed an abominable crime on the day of the entry of the troops into Constantinople. Mad with despair and jealousy, he shot dead his favorite, a beautiful Circassian girl, eighteen years old. Certain that the end of his reign had come, the sultan had been induced to prepare for a general massacre on Saturday, the signal for which was to have been given by the firing of bombs. General Scheffet, however, learned of the danger that threatened and hastened the entry of the troops."

TURKS IN AMERICA GREET NEW RULER

Ottoman Ambassador Leads In Celebration.

New York, May 1.—Hussein Kiazim Bey, the Ottoman ambassador to the United States, and one hundred and fifty of his countrymen, gathered in a downtown restaurant last night and celebrated the accession to the throne of Turkey of Mehmed V., as the first Constitutional sultan and the passing of Abdul Hamid.

After the dinner the ambassador, addressing the assemblage in French, said: "We are here to celebrate the accession to the throne of Mehmed the fifth, and the triumph of the first Constitutional government of Turkey. Long live a fraternity of the Ottoman people who work hand in hand for the advancement and welfare of all the people!"

Adi Cides Bey, the son of a man high in political circles in Constantinople, the next speaker, said he feared the ultimate "swallowing up of Turkey by Russia." The ambassador interrupted him with an emphatic "no."

Near the end of the meeting the orchestra played "America." As the strains sounded forth every Turk in the room arose and the ambassador cried in Turkish: "Great America! Let us thank the soil that is hospitable to us."

Created Good Impression.

Constantinople, May 1.—Tewfik Pasha has finally succeeded in forming a new cabinet to preside over the destinies of the Turkish empire. Mehmed V drove through the streets in democratic fashion Friday on his way to the mosque to offer up the regular Friday prayers. The pomp and ceremonial that formerly attached to the function during the reign of Abdul Hamid were altogether lacking, and the subjects of the new sultan seemed to appreciate his democratic manner and accepted it as evidence of the beginning of a more lenient rule.

Abdul Hamid Gets the Blame.

Adana, May 1.—The conviction is held by the Armenians that the Moslem attacks against them had their origin in Constantinople. The massacres began simultaneously in the district within a one hundred-miles radius from the Gulf of Alexandretta, and, therefore, they maintain that they could not have started from a local town in Adana in which two Turks were shot by an Armenian as he was leaving a church with his bride whom the Turks were trying to capture.

Wife Knew of Infatuation.

Louisville, Ky., May 1.—Mrs. Campbell, wife of the Rev. P. J. Campbell, arrested at St. Louis in the company of Miss Josie Hosley said that some weeks ago her husband confessed to her that he loved Miss Hosley and was therefore unfit to preach the gospel. Two weeks ago he resigned at St. Paul's Church and sent his wife and four year-old boy to Louisville. He never followed, however, as he promised. He graduated from Kemberlin College, Tenn., with honor.

STATE GUARDS PATROL PRISON

Strict Deadline is Maintained Near the Broken Wall Caused by Wind Storm.

STATE WILL BE OUT $25,000

The Cost of the Havoc Wrought at State Penitentiary Will Amount to That Much.

Michigan City, Ind., May 1—Trustees of the Indiana state prison are confronting the problem of replacing at once the entire west wall of the prison enclosure, a wall of 500 feet of supposedly solid masonry, blown flat by the freakish cyclone Thursday night, and also of repairing immediately buildings of the institution which were damaged by the storm.

Company F of South Bend, numbering forty men, Capt. Calvert commanding, is stationed on guard at the gap in the prison walls. There is no disorder among the 1,214 convicts in the cell and none is feared.

No one was injured in the storm. The convicts, numbering 1,214, were all in their cells before the storm broke, and although there was much restlessness and evidence of fear when the force of the wind was manifested, there was no disorder. The guards had things in hand. When the short-lived fury of the elements subsided Warden Reid with his assistants surveyed the ruins.

Then followed the call of Governor Marshall for aid from the state troops. After reporting to Warden Reid Capt. Calvert and his forty men lost no time in taking charge of the situation. The deadline established reminded war veterans of Andersonville, the khaki boys with their blue inverness style military top coats and their ominous looking rifles, patrolling the gap in the wall.

The military service, it is expected, will not last more than a few days, but these days and the subsequent nights will test the mettle of the guards. It is probable that arrangements will be made for special guard service to relieve the militia soon. In the meantime the prisoners are for the most part kept within their cellhouses. Plans are under way for a temporary stockade which when constructed, can be guarded by a few armed men, and it is expected that this temporary barrier will be erected as soon as possible. The state loses by the wind of Thursday night to the extent of no less than $25,000, although some of the estimators seek to figure the damage as low as $11,000. The cost of the state militia service in guarding the broken enclosure will be added to the bill.

DIDN'T WANT TO KNOW

Prison Board Declined to Hear Grave Robber's Confession.

Indianapolis, May 1—Rufus Cantrell, the negro grave robber, whose depredations started Indiana and the entire country seven years ago, has been paroled by the board of trustees of the Indiana state prison, where he was sentenced for a term of from two to fourteen years.

A member of the board said that Cantrell had been a model prisoner, and that the authorities feared, if he were kept longer in the prison, his mind would be permanently affected.

The conditions of Cantrell's parole are that he do not return to Indianapolis, but that he obtain permanent employment in some other part of the state. In a recent meeting of the board of Cantrell is said to have given a faithful recital of the grave robberies in which he took a part and to have made a full confession of his crimes.

He offered to tell the board, under whose direction he did the work and who paid him the money for bodies he stole and delivered, but the board did not seek this information.

Motorman Gets Fatal Shock.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., May 1.—Benjamin C. Schroerlukke, of Decatur, a motorman on a Springfield and Ft. Wayne interurban car was instantly killed by electricity while throwing on a high tension circuit ten miles south of here last night. He was thirty-two years of age. The accident happened within a few rods of where Schroerlukke's car killed a well-known farmer a year ago.

Firemen Took Pity on Birds.

Evansville, Ind., May 1.—During a fire at the Indiana Stove Works the firemen quit fighting flames long enough to rescue hundreds of English sparrows from burning buildings. Afterward the firemen gathered enough hay for the birds to rebuild their nests.

AMUSEMENTS

vandeville" songs, and the best in motion pictures. The public will wonder how this company can give the high grade acts they do, at the low price of 10 cents. The best reason is the fact they control over twenty houses, in the larger cities, most of which run the year round. When an actor can get a steady engagement for 20 weeks, the very best are glad to take it. Our people who attend this theater, this summer, will see performers that have cost as much as a dollar to see in other theaters and during the winter season. S. E. Overpack will again manage the house during the summer, and Will G. McVay, formerly of this city, will look after the press work.

There will be a complete change of program at the Vaudet tonight with a new song, new subjects and a new talking picture.
